Recommendations of the Permanent Forum

3. The Permanent Forum has identified the proposals, objectives, recommendations and areas of possible future action set out below and, through the Council, recommends that States, entities of the United Nations system, intergovernmental organizations, Indigenous Peoples, the private sector and non-governmental organizations assist in their realization.

4. It is the understanding of the Permanent Forum that the proposals, objectives, recommendations and areas of possible future action to be carried out by the United Nations as set out below will be implemented to the extent possible within the context of the approved programme of work of the relevant entities.

Discussion on the theme “Enhancing Indigenous Peoples’ right to self-determination in the context of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples: emphasizing the voices of Indigenous youth” (item 3)

5. The Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues expresses its profound appreciation to the Vice-President of the Plurinational State of Bolivia, David Choquehuanca Céspedes, and to the Minister for Indigenous Peoples of Brazil, Sônia Guajajara, for their presence and welcomes their interventions at the session of the Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues.

6. The right to self-determination and autonomy is central to strengthening Indigenous Peoples politically, socially, culturally and economically, and to enabling Indigenous Peoples to design their own future consistent with their views and cultural norms. The advancement by States of the right to self-determination is essential to enable Indigenous Peoples to protect and fully realize all other rights set forth in the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, including the right to make decisions regarding their people, lands, territories and resources.

7. The Permanent Forum welcomes the study transmitted in the note by the Secretariat entitled “Guiding principles for the implementation of Indigenous Peoples’ rights to autonomy and self-government” (E/C.19/2024/3), which includes global examples of situations in which the rights to autonomy and self-determination come into play and the pivotal role of unified visions and objectives in the quest of Indigenous Peoples towards fully realizing autonomy and self-government.

8. The Permanent Forum acknowledges the statements by the Vice President of Bolivia David Choquehuanca, on the establishment of a virtual platform called "Codes of Good Living for Indigenous Peoples of the World", Professor James Anaya calling on States to guarantee Indigenous Peoples’ rights to self-determination and participation in all decision-making processes, and Makanalani Gomes, Co-Chair of the Global Indigenous Youth Caucus calling on States to recognise Indigenous Determinants of Health for self-determination and the importance of intergenerational transmission of Indigenous knowledge, youth leadership and participation.

9. The Permanent Forum recalls that the right to self-determination of Indigenous Peoples is grounded in the Declaration, the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights. The Permanent Forum calls upon all Member States to redouble efforts to fully realize the right of self-determination for Indigenous Peoples by ensuring that Indigenous Peoples remain at the centre of all decision-making processes that affect their Peoples, their communities, their lands, territories, and their resources. Furthermore, States should ensure that the right of Indigenous Peoples to self-determination is honoured and advanced in all instances where law, policies, programmes and funding may affect Indigenous Peoples.

10. The Permanent Forum reiterates its recommendation that Member States review and revise their constitutions and legal frameworks to comprehensively recognize the rights of Indigenous Peoples, including the right to self-determination. Such review and revision processes should be driven and guided by Indigenous Peoples. The Forum also recommends that Member States develop and adopt specific national action plans to ensure that all policies and laws conform with the recognition and advancement of the right to self-determination, including self-governance and autonomy. The Forum further recommends that States engage in processes focused on decolonization and reconciliation policies that facilitate the path of Indigenous Peoples to self-determination with full and effective participation.

11. The Permanent Forum emphasizes the essential role of Indigenous Peoples' languages and cultural practices in self-determination and urges Member States to adopt stronger measures to protect them from erosion and loss. The Forum decries the ongoing destruction of cultural heritage sites and the loss of Indigenous Peoples' languages, urging immediate protective measures through robust legal and policy frameworks aligned with the Declaration.

12. The Permanent Forum highlights the pivotal role of Indigenous women and elders in transmitting cultural values and traditions, recognizing their critical influence on the sustainability of Indigenous cultures. The Forum calls upon Member States to support the establishment of mechanisms for the empowerment of Indigenous women and girls, and calls for their equal involvement and participation in decision-making processes at all levels.

13. The Permanent Forum is concerned by the adverse effects of climate change and irresponsible resource extraction on Indigenous Peoples' lands and territories. The Forum calls upon Member States, the United Nations and other international organizations to support Indigenous-led initiatives to mitigate these impacts and stresses the importance of self-governance of Indigenous Peoples in managing these natural resources.

Indigenous youth

14. Indigenous young people are proactively championing Indigenous Peoples' right to self-determination, intertwining Indigenous knowledge to ensure that Indigenous Peoples' cosmovisions are integral in shaping policies at all levels.

15. Indigenous young people face significant barriers, including discrimination and marginalization, which critically impede their ability to practise and sustain their culture, traditions, languages and identities. The Forum draws attention to the high rates of suicide among Indigenous young people, and reiterates its call for addressing Indigenous determinants of health, focussing on youth and children. It is vital to enhance legal frameworks, policymaking processes and international collaboration to ensure the full and effective participation of Indigenous young people in self-determination.

16. The Permanent Forum recommends that Member States and the United Nations system develop and support educational and leadership programmes tailored to the needs of Indigenous young people, enabling them to fulfil their potential as leaders and protectors of their cultures and territories.

17. The Permanent Forum urges Member States to make significant investments in bilingual and culturally appropriate primary, secondary and higher education programmes, including mobile education initiatives for nomadic, semi-nomadic and mobile communities. Furthermore, the Forum calls upon Member States to establish effective mechanisms to ensure Indigenous young people occupy central roles in policy and political arenas and to break down barriers to their full political participation and leadership.

18. The Permanent Forum regrets the outcome and impact of the "Indigenous Voice" referendum on Indigenous Peoples, particularly Indigenous youth, held in Australia in 2023, which undermines their journey towards the full realization of the right to self-determination for Indigenous Peoples. The Forum urges Australia to implement the UNDRIP.

19. The Permanent Forum recognizes the grave challenges faced by the Indigenous Peoples of Ukraine – the Crimean Tatars, Karaites and Krymchaks – as a result of Russian aggression against Ukraine, which greatly affects their right to self-determination.

20. The Permanent Forum welcomes the proposal by of the Government of the Plurinational State of Bolivia on a law on free, prior and informed consent. The Forum urges that this law be adopted and reflecting the UNDRIP ensuring the full and effective participation of Indigenous Peoples throughout the process and promoting the recognition of Indigenous Peoples' own FPIC protocols.

21. The rights of Indigenous Peoples in voluntary isolation and in initial contact continue to face grave threats of dispossession and destruction of their ancestral territories, as well as the risk of genocide, owing to the lack of recognition of their rights. These threats include encroachment by extractive industries and the rapid imposition of monocultures, deforestation, violence, and the presence and proselytism of missionaries, including Mennonite groups. The Permanent Forum urges the application and observance of guidelines and recommendations by regional and international entities, including the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights, for the protection of the rights of Indigenous Peoples in voluntary isolation and in initial contact.

22. The Permanent Forum recommends that Member States and the United Nations make additional and more steadfast efforts to collect data and perform research regarding Indigenous Peoples in voluntary isolation and in initial contact and the effects of such data and research. The Forum reiterates its recommendation that the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, in cooperation with regional bodies and Indigenous Peoples, advance the protection of Indigenous Peoples living in voluntary isolation and in initial contact.

23. The Permanent Forum recognizes the history of Indigenous children in boarding and residential schools without FPIC, where there have been dramatically grave negative impacts on the well-being and identity development of Indigenous students, on their families, and on the communities and cultures of Indigenous Peoples in all socio-cultural regions. The Forum recommends that that States find mechanisms to redress the harms caused by boarding and residential schools, and engage in effective reconciliation efforts. With respect to French Guiana specifically, the Forum calls upon the Government of France establish a truth commission to investigate the conditions of boarding and residential schools in France and its overseas territories. The Government of France should adopt measures for healing, reparation and rehabilitation. The commission should guarantee gender equality in terms of inclusion and ensure the full participation of the Indigenous Peoples affected.

Discussion on the six mandated areas of the Permanent Forum (economic and social development, culture, environment, education, health and human rights), with reference to the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples and the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development (item 4) (REF: E/C.19/2023/L.7)

25. The Permanent Forum welcomes the study transmitted in the note by the Secretariat entitled "Improving the health and wellness of Indigenous Peoples globally: operationalization of Indigenous determinants of health" (E/C.19/2024/5). The Forum recognizes that the Indigenous determinants of health framework contains 33 risk and protective factors that empower United Nations entities and Member States to improve the health and wellness of Indigenous Peoples. Those entities and

Member States must adopt the framework to operationalize the Indigenous determinants of health globally.

26. The Permanent Forum reiterates the recommendation it made at its twenty-second session that Member States ratify and uphold the Convention on the Rights of the Child and its Optional Protocol on a communications procedure. The Forum expresses deep concern over the high incidences of suicide, trauma from harsh incarceration conditions, and adverse experiences in out-of-home care affecting Indigenous children and adolescents in Australia and globally.

27. The Permanent Forum recognizes the urgent need to increase commitment to the health of Indigenous women globally, as their health needs are often underserved and they lack culturally appropriate care, including as a result of the criminalization of traditional childbirth practices. The Forum urges Member States and United Nations entities to collaborate in developing programmes and allocating funds that prioritize the health of, and midwifery services and in strengthening the visibility of the situation of Indigenous Women's health through more disaggregated data. The Forum calls for the revision of discriminatory laws affecting Indigenous women. The Forum invites, WHO, UNFPA and UNICEF to partner in identifying and documenting good practices of culturally appropriate health interventions from their work at country level, including supporting Indigenous women and girls in exercising their sexual and reproductive rights. The Forum requests that the entities compile a comprehensive progress report, to be submitted at the 2025 session of the Forum.

28. The Permanent Forum remains concerned that Indigenous women and girls experience widespread discrimination and violence. The Forum congratulates the Government of Australia for its commitment to end violence against Indigenous women by undertaking to establish a national action plan consistent with the advice of United Nations treaty bodies and experts. The Forum reiterates its call for Member States that have not yet done so to implement the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women and general recommendation No. 39 (2022) the rights of Indigenous women and girls of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women); to ensure the rights of Indigenous women to full, effective and meaningful participation in decision-making at national and United Nations system agencies; and to ensure the availability of sustainable financing and resources to support initiatives for Indigenous women and youth.

The Forum urges Member States and United Nations entities to protect displaced, including refugees, Indigenous Peoples, and calls on UNHCR to conduct global and regional studies, by 2026, on the needs of displaced Indigenous Peoples and update the Forum at its 2025 session. Furthermore,

Indigenous Peoples deprived of treaty rights are also at risk; the Forum urges relevant States to adopt constructive agreements and appropriate laws to ensure Indigenous lands and territories are protected in the face of mineral extraction and development.

The Forum reiterates its call for Canada and the United States to decommission Line 5.

36. The Permanent Forum is concerned over the decision of the Supreme Administrative Court of Finland to include individuals not recognized by the Sami community in the Sami Parliament's electoral roll. It expresses concern over the intimidation of Indigenous leaders and human rights defenders for their participation in this year's session of the Forum. Their right to freedom of expression and opinion must be upheld. The Forum will refine its procedures to monitor and redress instances of reprisals against participants.

57. The Forum urges international bodies and national Governments to allocate funding and develop policies for training and certifying interpreters in Indigenous Peoples' languages, ensuring that they receive equitable compensation and support. These measures are vital for maintaining linguistic heritage and promoting inclusivity and equity in public services and judicial proceedings.

The Permanent Forum heard reports from Māori Indigenous Peoples that the Government of New Zealand had departed from the principles of Te Tiriti o Waitangi (Treaty of Waitangi) and taken measures against the rights of Indigenous Peoples, including the disbandment of Te Aka Whai Ora, the Māori health authority. Africa

74. The Forum welcomed progress made by Ghana, Namibia and the Democratic Republic of Congo to advance Indigenous Peoples’ rights in their countries.

75. The lack of recognition of Indigenous Peoples violates their right to self-determination. Their legal recognition should be aligned with UNDRIP and the Report of the African Commission on Human and Peoples’ Rights. The Forum invites African governments to join Groups of Friends of Indigenous Peoples.

81. The Forum highlights the importance of creating direct and accessible finance for African Indigenous Peoples to implement the 3 Rio conventions and SDGs as elaborated in the forum report E/C.19/2024/7.

Arctic

82. In the Arctic Region, Indigenous Peoples constitute the public majority population in certain jurisdictions. Thus, it is important not to refer to Indigenous Peoples as minorities. However, there is a disparity in the ways in which Indigenous Peoples rights are protected and supported across the region. In certain areas, Indigenous Peoples freely exercise autonomy and self-government, while in other parts, these rights are restricted. The Forum urges the need to focus on women's' equal participation in decision-making at all levels.

The Forum urges the governments of Canada, Denmark and Greenland to follow up and implement the recommendations of the Special Rapporteur on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples following his country visits in 2023. Given the long Arctic coastlines, Indigenous Peoples need to be involved in the monitoring of the international shipping routes and their impacts on the marine biodiversity and the seabeds.

88. The Forum notes the pertinent relevance of UNDRIP in the context of the International Decade of Indigenous Languages and recommends the active use of the Indigenous Peoples languages in the description of and names for the homeland and its landscapes and environmental features as this strengthens the sense of belonging and identity as well as making Indigenous Peoples language visible and omnipresent.

Asia

89. The Asia Regional Dialogue highlighted issues including Indigenous Peoples' right to self-determination, particularly the right to lands, territories and resources, the recognition of Indigenous Peoples' identity, Indigenous Peoples' meaningful participation in decision-making, and, in particular the issues that directly impact their well-being such as the implementation of UNDRIP at the national and international levels with practical outcomes, actions in addressing climate change and achieving the Sustainable Development Goals.

90. The Forum heard that the lack of recognition of Indigenous Peoples by Member States leads to inadequate legal protection and enforcement. For instance, the ASEAN Declaration on Environmental Rights (ADER) is now being drafted by the ASEAN Intergovernmental Commission for Human Rights (AICHR) with no representation from Indigenous Peoples. Indigenous Peoples have profound concerns regarding this and appeal for urgent global support and solidarity to ensure Indigenous Peoples' rights are aligned with the UNDRIP.

91. Indigenous Peoples noted the ongoing challenges faced by Indigenous media and Indigenous journalists and called for better protection and freedom of expression in the Asia region.

92. The dialogue emphasized the significance of collaborating with the SRIP on the effects of conflicts on Indigenous Peoples, focusing on safeguarding the rights of Indigenous Peoples in conflict-affected areas, especially with Indigenous women, children, and youth.

93. The Forum notes that Indigenous Peoples in Asia must not, under any circumstances, be deprived of their fundamental human rights under UNDRIP or direct access to international financial support.

Central and South America and the Caribbean

94. The Permanent Forum calls on States to revise national public policies and programmes with a culturally appropriate perspective, particularly in policies and programs for reproductive health services so Indigenous women receive quality health services.

95. The Indigenous Peoples of the region stressed on the complex relationship between cultural diversity and democracy, since they experience limitations to meaningful and effective participation in the institutions of the legislative, executive and judicial bodies, where norms, budgets and public policies are established, without adequate consultation to obtain their free, prior and informed consent. Regulation of prior consultation has also been generalized, diminishing its effectiveness, increasing extractivism and deforestation of indigenous peoples' lands and territories.

96. Indigenous Peoples of the region pointed out the complex relationship between cultural diversity and democracy. Indigenous Peoples experience limited avenues for meaningful participation in institutions and lack decision-making capacity in legislative, executive, and judicial bodies, which are the scenarios where norms, budgets and public policies are defined for their application. This has led to a lack of respect for autonomy and self-determination, increased criminalization of Indigenous Peoples' leaders and human rights defenders, a lack of proper consultation to obtain free, prior and informed consent, extractivism, and deforestation of Indigenous Peoples lands and territories.

97. The Forum heard that, in the name of safeguarding democracy, governments in the region have issued exceptional measures that favor repression and criminalization, promote authoritarianism and suppress protest voices and demands for self-governance. Indigenous Peoples expressed concern that the results of electoral mechanisms such as referendums are not respected.

98. Indigenous Peoples also pointed out the alarming increase in the criminalization, attacks, killings and arbitrary detention of Indigenous Peoples' leaders and human rights defenders, ignoring Indigenous Peoples' justice systems. The Forum was informed about hate speech and stigmatizing rhetoric that associates Indigenous movements with illegal armed groups, thereby putting the lives of Indigenous Peoples at risk.

Central and Eastern Europe, the Russian Federation, Central Asia and Transcaucasia

99. Indigenous Peoples' languages in Russia are endangered and may face extinction. It is imperative to enforce the UNDRIP to preserve these languages. Member States must commit to supporting and funding comprehensive programs to preserve Indigenous Peoples' languages.

100. The Forum heard that Russia's aggression against Ukraine has exacerbated numerous risks for Indigenous Peoples, posing severe existential threats. These include forced conscription, massive displacement, and attacks targeting their identities. The increase in the criminalization of Indigenous leaders undermines Indigenous Peoples' representative institutions, further jeopardizing their collective rights.

101. Failing to consider the rights of Indigenous Peoples during the transition to green economies could perpetuate historical injustices and lead to further marginalization, discrimination, and loss of lands, territories and resources for Indigenous Peoples.

102. The Forum notes that boarding schools in Russia continue to impact Indigenous Peoples. Cases brought to the attention of the Forum highlighted discrimination in educational settings and the urgent need for equitable education policies. Member States must develop educational programs tailored to meet the specific needs of Indigenous Peoples, particularly in remote areas. The Russian government's superficial measures fail to empower Indigenous Peoples.

103. The Youth Council of the Krasnoyarsk Krai exemplifies engagement in preserving Indigenous Peoples' cultures and languages. Initiatives like the Siberian Argish Youth Forum and collaborations with academic institutions highlight the importance of integrating traditional practices with modern technologies to maintain cultural continuity.

104. The Forum hears that industrial companies and authorities in Russia promote certain "authorized bodies of Indigenous Peoples," which in reality are run by state representatives claiming that only these organizations have the right to negotiate on behalf of Indigenous Peoples. In this regard, the Forum proposes that the Russian government revise the federal law "On Guarantees of the Rights of Indigenous Peoples of the Russian Federation".

105. The Forum recommends that the Member States in the region enhance the protection of Indigenous Peoples through recognition and autonomy in line with UNDRIP by revising legal and policy frameworks. Governments should rectify the injustices of the colonial past with Indigenous Peoples and their perspectives, particularly those of Indigenous Youth, ensuring their participation in decision-making.

North America

106. The Forum welcomes the very rich contributions from Indigenous Peoples and Member States during the North American Regional Dialogue. Clearly, Indigenous Peoples have many strengths that can contribute positively to a diverse array of areas, such as health, sustainable development, and environmental stewardship.

107. The Forum urges Canada and the United States to fund, expand, and improve initiatives to end the epidemics that impact Indigenous Peoples, such as the alarming rates of HIV/HepC/STI, especially amongst women, youth, persons with a disability, and gender diverse and two-spirited members.

108. Indigenous Peoples' rights to govern lands, manage resources and protect lands, territories, and ecosystems must be upheld in line with the UNDRIP. The Forum is concerned that the bilateral agreements between Canada and the United States to divert or export water from Canada to the United States do not take into consideration Indigenous Peoples' rights and need for water.

109. The Forum calls for support to be provided to displaced Mayan and other Indigenous Peoples permanently settled in Canada and the United States so that they are visible to authorities and culturally safe as per UNDRIP, while upholding the treaty and trust rights of Indigenous Peoples in North America.

110. With many continuing areas of conflict, globally, the Forum urgently calls on Member States to focus on ways to achieve peace by utilizing Indigenous Peoples as peacebuilders.

111. The Forum supports the call for the establishment of an informal Elders Council to the Permanent Forum.

112. The Forum acknowledges the benefits of evaluating the Forum's program of work, operations, participation, and tenure in preparation for the 20th anniversary of the passage of the UNDRIP.

Pacific

113. The Indigenous Peoples' of the Pacific region spans a quarter of the globe. From Hawai'i in the north to the southernmost island of Aotearoa, to Rapa Nui in the east and over the Island of Papua to the shores of the Australian continent. The Forum heard Indigenous Peoples stories about violence, racism, discrimination and asserted their right to self-determination under the UNDRIP.

114. The Forum is alarmed about the removal of Indigenous children, based on policies and practices not suited to Indigenous Peoples, due to a culture of discrimination and perceived risk aversion, rather than care and concern. This harmful practice disconnects Indigenous children from their culture, homes and family with little ramification for institutional decision-makers.

115. The Forum heard about calls for a campaign in New Zealand to decrease the voting age globally to 16 years, because youth have a greater stake in the future, yet very little influence over it.

116. The Forum is also concerned about reprisals against Indigenous youth land and environment defenders in the Pacific facing the destruction of their sacred sites and ecosystems. Also, the impacts of the extractive industries on Indigenous women and girls, noting the report of Hawaii on Murdered and Missing Indigenous women and girls.

117. The OHCHR also urged Pacific Indigenous Peoples to utilize the Voluntary Fund for Indigenous Peoples and Indigenous Fellowship Programme to increase representation at UN meetings and within the UN system.

118. The Forum invites Member States to consider adopting a UN International Day of the Arts at the 79th session of the General Assembly in recognition of arts in all its expressions, including Indigenous arts.

Dialogue on Indigenous platforms established within United Nations entities
(item 5 (f)); (REF: E/C.19/2023/L.6)

119. The Permanent Forum encourages United Nations entities that have platforms for Indigenous Peoples to continue to contribute to the deliberations of the Forum, including through the submission of conference room papers to further update the Forum. The Forum reiterates the importance of the sustained and consistent engagement of Indigenous Peoples at every stage of decision-making across the United Nations.

120. The Permanent Forum appreciates the joint work of the EMRIP and SRIP in following up on the recommendations regarding the conflation of the terms “local communities” and Indigenous Peoples. In joint declarations issued in July 2023 and February 2024 Member States, United Nations entities, foundations, funders and non-governmental organizations were called upon to cease the conflation of the terms. The Forum thanks the United Nations entities that have responded to that call and encourages their continued efforts in that regard.

121. The Permanent Forum reiterates that it urged all United Nations entities and States parties to treaties concerning the environment, biodiversity and climate change to eliminate the use of the term “local communities” in conjunction with Indigenous Peoples, and to distinguish between the terms, in ongoing processes, policies and new international agreements at all levels.

122. The Permanent Forum invites the Conference of Parties to the Convention on Biological Diversity to ensure progress on institutional arrangements guaranteeing human rights-based approaches to the Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework with the full and effective participation of Indigenous Peoples. In addition, the Forum calls on the Conference of Parties to request its relevant subsidiary bodies to convene an ad hoc expert group meeting with the participation of experts of the three United Nations mechanisms on Indigenous Peoples to address the conflation of Indigenous Peoples with other groups of society and to develop specific actions to avoid such conflation.

123. The Permanent Forum welcomes the efforts of the International Indigenous Peoples’ Forum on Climate Change in addressing terminology related to Indigenous Peoples and local communities. The Forum urges Parties to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change to uphold the principles established during the twenty-third session of the Conference of the Parties for the upcoming review of the Local Communities and Indigenous Peoples Platform at the twenty-ninth session, ensuring equal status and financial support for Indigenous Peoples within the Platform at all levels. The Forum supports the establishment of a separate platform for Indigenous Peoples.

124. The Permanent Forum welcomes the commitment of the United Nations Voluntary Fund for Indigenous Peoples to enhance Indigenous Peoples’ participation within United Nations entities. The Forum encourages Member States and other funders to support the VFIP and the Trust Fund on Indigenous Issues.

125. The Permanent Forum urges Member States and relevant United Nations entities to strengthen and facilitate the engagement of Indigenous young people in decision-making across all United Nations processes, including the Summit of the Future.

126. The Forum calls on international financial institutions, to align policies and safeguards with the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples.

Thematic dialogues, including on the financing of Indigenous Peoples' work and participation in the context of, inter alia, development, climate, environment and biodiversity (item 5 (g)) (REF: E/C.19/2023/L.5)

127. Worldwide, Indigenous Peoples are at the forefront of the protection and management of the environment and biodiversity of, as well as climate change mitigation and adaptation in, on and around, their own lands and territories. Their management of 80 per cent of the world's biodiversity underlines the importance of strengthening their participation in environmental governance and resource management at the local, national and international levels. The Permanent Forum commends the many positive and encouraging examples of impactful projects and programmes for Indigenous Peoples related to the environment, sustainable development, cultural heritage, climate change, and biodiversity management and conservation.

128. As rights holders to their own lands, territories and resources, Indigenous knowledge, is essential for sustainable development, including pertinent international processes and Conferences of the Parties, inter alia, to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change and to the Convention on Biological Diversity, UNCCD. The Forum welcomes the study transmitted in the note by the Secretariat entitled "Financing the future: the financial needs of Indigenous Peoples to support their actions for biodiversity, climate and the protection of Mother Earth" (E/C.19/2024/7).

129. Indigenous Peoples expressed their discontent with the many obstacles to being truly able to protect and manage projects and actions within these fields, including from the encroachment of extractive industries by private and public business enterprises that threaten the health of ecosystems and the health and livelihoods of Indigenous Peoples.

130. Concerns were also expressed about "green colonialism", where Indigenous lands and territories are used for green energy projects, such as for the placement of wind turbines, and for the extraction of minerals that are critical for the green transition, in complete disregard for Indigenous Peoples' rights, including free, prior and informed consent.

131. The Forum regrets that Indigenous Peoples living in other environmental ecosystems and latitudes than tropical and subtropical forests are ineligible for funding, including the $1.7 billion pledge made at the twenty-sixth session of the Conference of the Parties to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change. The Forum advises the Forest Tenure Funders Group to promote a dialogue with UN mechanisms on Indigenous Peoples' rights when defining the ongoing and future process of funding to Indigenous Peoples.

132. Despite the many good and innovative funder practices, there is still scope for private philanthropists and bilateral and multilateral donors to ensure a rights-based approach to funding, in conformity with the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples.

133. The Permanent Forum recognizes the need for more accountability and transparency of funding for Indigenous Peoples, as only a small fraction of international funding is directed to Indigenous Peoples and, when it is, such funding is directed through multilateral agencies, large environmental and conservation non-governmental organizations and other non-Indigenous intermediaries. Indigenous Peoples have a right to the financing of their environmental work.

134. The Permanent Forum urges Member States and financial institutions to enhance direct financial support for Indigenous Peoples-led projects with funding mechanisms that are equitable, non-discriminatory, accessible, flexible and responsive to Indigenous Peoples' self-determined priorities across all seven sociocultural regions without political impediments that could obstruct fair resource allocation. Such support should empower Indigenous Peoples to manage their environmental resources and engage in sustainable economic activities without reliance on intermediaries.

135. The Permanent Forum recognizes the efforts of the Green Climate Fund and its Indigenous Peoples' advisory group and recommends that the Fund develop a road map for dedicated, predictable funding for Indigenous Peoples, including through capacity-building at the national level to ensure that the Fund's Readiness and Preparatory Support Programme¹ supports Indigenous Peoples. The Forum requests a progress report at its next session in 2025.

136. The Permanent Forum recognizes the importance of financing for Indigenous Peoples and appreciates the Global Environment Facility's target of allocating 20 per cent of its funds to support initiatives for Indigenous Peoples. The Forum urges the Facility to create direct financing mechanisms for Indigenous Peoples.

137. The Permanent Forum recommends that Member States strengthen and implement legal and institutional frameworks that recognize and protect the rights of Indigenous Peoples to their lands, territories and resources and ensure their participation in decision-making processes. Such frameworks should adhere to UNDRIP and Indigenous and Tribal Peoples Convention, 1989 (No. 169) of the International Labour Organization, ensuring Indigenous Peoples' free, prior and informed consent when development, environment, biodiversity and climate change programmes and projects are conducted on their lands and territories.

138. The Permanent Forum emphasizes the need for improved data collection and transparency in distributing funds designated for Indigenous Peoples. Such improvements will facilitate better tracking of financial flows and ensure that investments are aligned with the priorities identified by Indigenous Peoples, thus enhancing the accountability and effectiveness of funded projects.

139. The Permanent Forum reiterates its calls to Member States and international organizations to include Indigenous Peoples actively in policymaking forums and development agendas. This inclusion should extend to negotiations and management forums under the multilateral environment agreements and other relevant platforms and processes focusing on issues affecting Indigenous Peoples and where their voices and knowledge guarantee significant contributions and outcomes for global sustainable development and the health of global ecosystems.

140. The Permanent Forum calls for increased investments in educational programmes and capacity-building initiatives that empower Indigenous Peoples to navigate legal and bureaucratic processes in managing their resources in keeping with their cultural and spiritual values and self-determined development. These initiatives should support the transmission of Indigenous knowledge and skills across generations, enhancing resilience and sustainability.

141. The Permanent Forum encourages and commends the development and implementation of environmental monitoring systems led by Indigenous Peoples that utilize their traditional knowledge and modern technology to oversee and manage natural resources effectively. Such approaches that are aligned with Indigenous Peoples' autonomy objectives provide valuable data for global environmental efforts.

142. The Permanent Forum encourages collaborative research initiatives for innovative solutions to environmental challenges that engage Indigenous Peoples as equal partners, respecting and integrating Indigenous Peoples' knowledge systems with so-called "Western" scientific research and fostering mutual learning and respect between Indigenous Peoples and the mainstream scientific community.

143. The Permanent Forum supports the initiatives that empower Indigenous women, recognizing their roles as custodians of biodiversity and Indigenous knowledge. Programmes should address the specific needs and leadership roles of women within Indigenous Peoples' communities in order to ensure equitable participation in all funded projects.

144. The Permanent Forum welcomes the Paris Roadmap for Tracking of Funds, which sets out collaborative and coordinated action to address the systemic funding gaps for Indigenous Peoples. In this regard, the Forum reiterates the recommendation of its twenty-second session to Development Assistance Committee of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development to facilitate the tracking of funds in its statistical system by establishing relevant indicators, and invites the Development Assistance Committee to present on progress in this regard at the twenty-fourth session of the Forum in 2025.

Future work of the Permanent Forum, including issues considered by the Economic and Social Council, the outcome document of the World Conference on Indigenous Peoples and emerging issues (item 6) (REF: E/C.19/2023/L.9)

145. The Permanent Forum fully endorses the enhanced participation of Indigenous Peoples and their representative institutions at the General Assembly and looks forward to the Human Rights Council. The Permanent Forum welcomes the appointment of Robert Rae, Víctor García Toma, Claire Winfield Ngamihi Charters and Belkacem Lounes to lead consultations during the seventy-eighth session of the General Assembly on the enhanced participation of Indigenous Peoples and their representative institutions. The Forum recommends that the Assembly and the Council ensure the full and effective participation of Indigenous Peoples in these processes and calls upon Member States to financially support the Indigenous Coordinating Body for Enhanced Participation in the United Nations.

146. The Permanent Forum recommends that the General Assembly conduct a high-level meeting in September 2027 to evaluate the implementation of the outcome document of the World Conference on Indigenous Peoples and to celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, with the enhanced participation of Indigenous Peoples as a key deliverable of the event. The Forum advocates for the support of Indigenous Peoples' preparatory efforts for that event by ensuring their full and effective participation and funding from Member States and the private sector.

147. The Permanent Forum welcomes the decision by the Amazon Cooperation Treaty Organization to establish a mechanism for the participation of Indigenous Peoples. The Forum recommends that States members of the Treaty Organization guarantee the full and effective participation of Indigenous Peoples in all processes with a view to developing the operational structure of the mechanism. The Forum invites the Treaty Organization to present a progress report at the next session of the Forum in 2025. The Forum welcomes the opportunity to provide its expertise to the Treaty Organization.

148. The Permanent Forum recalls that, in the outcome document of the World Conference on Indigenous Peoples, Member States committed to "developing, in conjunction with the Indigenous Peoples concerned, fair transparent and effective mechanisms for ... repatriation of ceremonial objects and human remains at the national and international levels". The Forum urges United Nations entities to accurately identify affected Indigenous Peoples and provide them with advance notice and applicable timelines for both identification and repatriation so that Indigenous Peoples can request the repatriation of their ancestral remains, cultural patrimony and sacred objects.

131. The Permanent Forum welcomes the expanded use of the Indigenous Navigator tool, providing Indigenous Peoples with the means to monitor the implementation of the Declaration, the commitments made at the World Conference and the Sustainable Development Goals. The Forum invites the Indigenous Navigator consortium to deliver a presentation at the twenty-fourth session of the Forum in 2025 and encourages donors to continue to support this invaluable data collection tool for and by Indigenous Peoples.

132. The Permanent Forum decided to conduct the following studies and to present them to the Forum at its twenty-fourth session: Reforms of global financial institutions and the rights of Indigenous Peoples", "Involvement of Indigenous Peoples in truth and reconciliation processes", "The rights of Indigenous Peoples in the context of critical minerals to ensure a just transition" and "Impact of colonization and armed conflicts on Indigenous Peoples' rights: the imperative of peacebuilding".
