2. Promotion of inclusive education for persons with disabilities

The Special Envoy is developing a project on good treatment at school as an essential factor for the inclusive education of students with disabilities. The second Decalogue of good treatment was prepared with the participation of students with disabilities towards their teachers and a script on substantive aspects of quality inclusive education. A pilot application will be carried out with workshops for teachers, professors, education personnel and the student community in general.

3. Women and girls with disabilities

Her work on the reproductive rights of women with disabilities falls within this area: model protocol and video for global distribution.

4. Papers and comments

The objective of this area of work is to position the human rights model of persons with disabilities and contribute to the harmonization of public policies always in connection with the 2030 Agenda.

The Special Envoy permanently prepares her own papers and messages, as well as comments on interdisciplinary texts that are raised by United Nations agencies and other interested parties.

At the same time, she has visited countries in different regions of the world, where she has given master lectures, talks, classes and workshops. The same has happened online.

5. Mainstreaming of the human rights model of persons with disabilities

In terms of universal accessibility, the Special Envoy continues the strategic alliance that she has developed with United Cities and Local Governments (UCLG) to help mainstream universal accessibility in the network of local governments and municipalities.

The Special Envoy has continued her work with the Presidency and the Secretariat of the Ottawa Convention, linking the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities with the promotion and protection of the rights of landmine survivors.
