

A group of five women are shown from the chest up, smiling warmly. They are wearing traditional African headwraps and clothing. The woman on the far left has a blue and white patterned headwrap and a black and white striped top. The woman next to her has a colorful patterned headwrap and a light green top. The woman in the center has a white top with a grey polka-dot pattern. The woman to her right has an orange headwrap and a white top with a yellow and black beaded necklace. The woman on the far right has a colorful patterned headwrap and a light-colored top. They are standing in front of a building with a thatched roof made of dried grass or straw. The background is slightly blurred, showing more of the building and some greenery.
